SEXUAL/RACIAL HARASSMENT REPORTS
PRE-INVESTIGATION GUIDELINES

GENERAL INFORMATION:

Please review these guidelines prior to any interviews with complainants:

- Investigate all allegations, even if:
 - implausible
 - the accused is an improbable suspect
 - the source is suspect, unsavory or thought to be promiscuous.
- Avoid co-mingling counseling and investigation functions.
- Document your investigation by using the appropriate forms.
- Make notes of all interviews and keep these records under lock and key.
- Never discourage a student complaint with words such as: "It will just be your word against his/her.", "Do you see how this makes you look?", "Do you know what could happen to Mr(s). X?", etc.
- Do not rely on potentially misplaced loyalty to staff; the offending employee is sometimes the one you would least suspect and/or one who has immense student/community popularity.
- Do not end the inquiry simply because a student recants a prior statement. Recanting may be a mechanism to avoid embarrassment or humiliation.
- Keep the child's parents informed of the progress of the investigation according to School Board Policies.
- If you believe the harassment constitutes child abuse, you must also comply with reporting requirements and other obligations under child abuse laws and district policies.
- Do not promise anything beyond a general statement that you will thoroughly investigate the incident(s) and take appropriate action to prevent recurrence.
- Obtain appropriate signatures on all reports.
- Inform your superior of the problem in sufficient detail so as to indicate to him/her the severity of the problem.
- Maintain a neutral posture during interviews. Do not form judgments against anyone until you know all of the facts and have independent corroboration of them. Independent corroboration means a source other than the complainant or alleged wrongdoer. Ask the primary parties for names of any witnesses who can back up their statements and tell them you must interview these sources.

INTERVIEWING THE ALLEGED HARASSER:

- Initially state: "The purpose of this meeting is talk about an allegation of sexual/racial harassment which may involve you. Would you like to have a third party present during this interview?" (A parent/guardian, legal counsel, union representative.)
- Do not initially reveal the identity of the person who brought the complaint. Instead, describe the circumstances surrounding the complaint. For example: "Did you touch the back of a female who was standing by the water fountain around 10:00 this morning?"
- Maintain a neutral posture during interviews. Do not form judgments against anyone until you know all of the facts and have independent corroboration of them.
- Make detailed notes of all interviews.
- Obtain written responses before concluding the interview.

INTERVIEWING WITNESSES:

- Do not initially reveal the identity of the person(s) involved in the complaint. Instead, describe the circumstances surrounding the complaint. For example: "Did you witness someone touching the back of a female who was standing by the water fountain around 10:00 this morning?"
- You must obtain a written report from each witness before concluding the interview.
- Maintain a neutral posture during the interview. Do not form judgments against anyone until you know all of the facts and have independent corroboration of them.
- Make detailed notes of all interviews.
