Who Are We?

Carnegie
Mellon
University

What is our Why?

- To consider and challenge everything we do in curriculum, instruction, and assessment so that we promote student learning
- Question EVERYTHING!

What do we expect of our staff?

- Choose your attitude – be positive...it is a choice!!!
- Be present – engage with your colleagues throughout the discussion (not on your phone, grading papers, or arriving late)
- Play – have fun and enjoy the opportunity to reflect, share, and celebrate learning
- Make someone's day – find opportunities to recognize one another for the gifts they bring to the school, to students, to you, and to their classroom.

What do we expect of you?

- Choose your attitude – be positive...it is a choice!!!
- Be present – engage in the learning process (not on your phone, not coming to school, or arriving late)
- Play – have fun and enjoy the opportunity to reflect, share, and celebrate your learning
- Make someone's day – find opportunities to recognize one another for the gifts they bring to the school, to students, to you, and to the learning environment.

What can you expect?

- To be challenged
  - Information versus Application
- To grow in who you are as a learner and as an individual
  - How do you learn best? What are you interested in? Who/What do you want to be?
- To experience a greater level of freedom and choice
  - Electives, Extra-curricular activities, and movement throughout/between buildings
- To trust that we are here to support your learning

Success...

- Is not solely measured by a letter grade, test score, a G.P.A. or the amount of information you can recite. Numbers and facts alone are not an accurate representation of learning. What you are able to do with that knowledge and how you grow from all of the experiences life has to offer...THAT is the evidence of true learning.
